Education – Computer Assisted

11-14 Kallio, L.H., and Peltoniemi, M.P.
A computer program for learning basic refraction seismology
51 Mott, C.J.
Geoscience education discussion group internet
107-113 Larrieu, T.L.
Basin analysis with a spreadsheet
152-157 Moore, A., and Derry, L.
Understanding natural systems through simple dynamical systems modeling
230-235 Baker, S.P., Benson, M.A., Palmes, S.L., and Huntoon, J.E.
Numerical simulation of sedimentary-basin formation with simple examples for upper-division under- graduates in tectonics or process-sedimentology courses
236-243 DeLa'O, J.D.
CAD solid modeling as an interactive tool for applications involving multicomponent phase diagrams in geological education
246-253 Rogers, S.J., Kopaska-Merkel, D.C., and Fang, J.-H.
Computer simulation of carbonate platform
327-330 McManus, D.A.
Changing a course in marine geology from lecture format to a cooperative-learning format
330-331 Housel, E.S., Huston, A.L., Martin, C.A., and Pierce, T.L.
Student perspectives on a cooperative-learning experience
346-351 Beiersdorfer, R.E., and Beiersdorfer, S.L.
Collaborative learning in an advanced environmental-geology course
497-506 Prothero, W.A. Jr.
Using technology to tame the large oceanography class
507-510 Biddle, D.L.
Ion activity and speciation in environmental geochemistry
516 Toom, A.
